

WOMAN'S EVIDENCE UPHOLDS CLAIMS

Says: "I Wish All Nervous, Weak, Run-down Women Could Have Vinol, It Did So Much for Me"

Beaumont, Ohio.—"Vinol has done so much for me, I wish all nervous, weak, run-down women could have it. I was so run-down, weak, and nervous I could not sleep nights. Everything I ate hurt me, and the medicine I had taken did me no good. I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it. I had not taken it long before I could eat anything I wanted without hurting me, and I could sleep all night. Now I am well and strong and in better health than I have been for years. I never spent money for medicine that did me so much good as that I spent for Vinol."—Mrs. Anna Millison, Beaumont, Ohio.

If the careworn, tired, overworked women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Mrs. Millison's example, they, too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is the combined action of the medicinal curative elements of the cod's liver, without oil, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron, that makes Vinol so successful in such cases.

Make Your Farmhouse Comfortable.

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside appears an interesting article entitled, "Comfort on the Farm," in which the author tells how water, light and power may be procured for the ordinary farmhouse. The following extract from the article sets forth a general statement of the needs:

"The farm is conceded to be the most healthful place in the world to live. It is time to take serious thought as to our resources and see if we can't make our farm homes the pleasantest and most convenient spots also.

"There is no longer excuse for homes which are totally lacking in modern conveniences and labor-saving devices. The man who to-day remarks that 'what was good enough for my grandfather is good enough for me' is not considered conservative; he is set down as a lazy good-for-nothing.

"The homes which lack comforts are becoming rarer each day, but there are many cases where more might be done to bring the house equipment up to the standard of town houses—cases where natural resources close at hand are neglected and the owner fails to perceive his opportunities for introducing new conveniences."

Sticking to a Policy.

A good start has been made by the legislature in disregarding precedents with respect to the suspension of the joint rule necessary to the admission of new business. It has just refused to take such action in order to let in three measures that have come before it. Doubtless this was a surprise to the proponents and also to the public, but productive of different emotions in the two directions. The time limit has hitherto been hardly more than a nominal barrier against the flood of new propositions that has poured in during the entire session for many years. It has been about as ineffective as Mrs. Partington's broom against the Atlantic. But this new department shows that it has a potential grip if the right spirit is behind it. The three measures that fell by the wayside were not of great importance. In fact, one or two of them were of the fanciful and impractical kind that are not likely to get through but are none the less time-wasters. Should anything of great importance arise, it is probable that due consideration would be given it. The preceding officers of the legislature have shown a sincere determination to improve upon recent procedure, by heroic methods if necessary, and their respective bodies appear to be loyally supporting them.—Boston Transcript.

ABOUT THE STATE

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM DIFFERENT SECTIONS

Rev. Mr. Kidder, pastor of the Congregational church at Westford, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the church at Royalton and has moved there.

Prof. McFarland, chairman of the student life committee at Middlebury college, has announced that the fox trot dance has been added to the list of approved dances for the college.

Charles Niles, 16 years old, of Brandon, suffered the fracture of his left wrist by being thrown from his horse. He was going down a steep hill when his skis struck a stump, throwing him about 30 feet.

Chicken thieves entered the henhouse of Lester Dean at Monkton Ridge Tuesday night and stole 110 fine chickens. No disturbance was heard about the premises, but between darkness and dawn the birds disappeared and tracks about the henhouse indicate that more than one person had a hand in the affair. The tracks were traced for some distance.

A man, named Patrick Tymon, formerly of Quincy, Mass., was found lying in the road near the overpass in West Derby, Jan. 16, with the knee cap torn completely off one leg. He was taken to Brightbrook hospital in St. Johnsbury, but operation was delayed some hours until it could be learned who would assume the expense. His suffering has since been intense. Intoxication is alleged to be the primary cause of the man's misfortune, and it is thought he was struck by a train while in that condition and thrown from the track. He had only begun work that morning at the Newport granite sheds.

Religious Union Planned for Canada.

In this country there has been much talk in recent years of the union of various Protestant denominations, but little has been accomplished. The recent amalgamation of the Baptists and Free Baptists in Maine, one with 240 churches and the other with 186, indicates what may happen more generally in coming years when denominations are disposed to put Christianity above mere nomenclature and the petty controversies of earlier generations that have long since become meaningless.

In Canada there is taking place a real union that will not be without its influence on this side of the border. The Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists of Canada have got their union beyond the stage of friendly intercourse and mutual respect. For several years a joint committee has been working out a plan for "The United Church of Canada" and a meeting of the committee in Toronto the other day showed how little remains to be done. All want union. The differences that the committee has had to settle have been mainly those of terminology rather than those of faith or form, creed or spirit. For example, after much debate, it has been determined that the highest body of the union shall be the "general council," the provincial government body the "conference" and the district governing body the "presbytery"—thus taking a characteristic term from each constituent church. In each local church the spiritual government will be committed to "elders" and the temporal affairs will be administered by "stewards"—again combining Presbyterian and Methodist terminology.

The plan formulated at this meeting will go to the separate denominations to be ratified again. There appears no doubt that the Congregationalists and Methodists will enter the union unreservedly, but it seems likely that a few Presbyterians will split off as a seceding fragment when the union comes.—Boston Herald.

SPEAKERS EXTOL VERMONT SPIRIT

President Calvin Coolidge and Others Heard at Banquet of Association.

Boston, Jan. 25.—"The spirit of Vermont that binds its people together, will some day envelop the nation and make it even greater than it is to-day," declared President Calvin Coolidge of the Senate, at the 29th annual banquet of the Vermont association of Boston, held at the Hotel Vendome Saturday night.

"The spirit that binds this association together," he continued, "dominates in Vermont. It is the spirit that makes good citizens in Vermont and in Massachusetts, too, for that matter, but it is prevalent in the Green Mountain state to a degree that has been noted all over the land. We do not gather here in a spirit of disloyalty to the state of Massachusetts, but in a spirit of enthusiasm that binds us closer to this commonwealth.

"The people of Vermont are imbued with a typical spirit of democracy. It is all inspiration to see the Vermonters' sturdy loyalty and belief in the greatness of his native state. It is a spirit that stands unshrinking and unafraid and forms a bulwark of strength on which to achieve national greatness."

The dinner was attended by about 200 members of the association who entertained Lieut.-Gov. Hale K. Darling and Adj.-Gen. Lee S. Tilton of Vermont, and the past presidents, Elmer E. Silver, president of the organization, acted as toastmaster.

Lieut.-Gov. Darling brought the regrets of Gov. Gates of Vermont, who was unable to be present. He spoke of the needs of Vermont and of the work of the legislature at the present season. "The first lawmakers of Vermont," he said, "proved that the printed laws of Connecticut and the laws of God should govern the state until better ones could be provided. The legislature has been so busy ever since that it has found no time to change the then existing laws of Connecticut.

"We are planning much new legislation in the state this year. We are working on a general corporation law, a workmen's compensation act, a primary law and revising our educational system. That is the program we are to try to put through. All the glory in the history and tradition of the state of Vermont and the love and trust of its people, before us in our work and I sincerely hope that the Vermont of to-day and of to-morrow will be equally worthy of your devotion and pride."

Adj.-Gen. Tilton and Gen. Charles K. Darling, a brother of the visiting lieutenant-governor, were the other speakers, confining themselves to stories of Vermont.

Among those who sat at the speakers' table were: President and Mrs. Silver, Lieut.-Gov. and Mrs. Darling, Adj.-Gen. Tilton, Calvin Coolidge, Vice President David T. Montague and the following past presidents, Col. Josiah H. Benton, George W. Bishop, Nelson L. Sheldon, Arthur L. Robinson, Isiah R. Clark, Gen. Charles K. Darling, Charles H. Bradley and Everett C. Benton.

He Was Overtaken.

It was a wretched little man who appeared before the judge and charged his wife with cruel and abusive treatment. His better half was a big, square-jawed woman with a determined eye.

"In the first place, where did you meet this woman who has treated you so dreadfully?" asked the judge.

"Well," replied the little man, making a brave attempt to glare defiantly at his wife, "I never did meet her. She just kind of overtook me."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Here Is a Wonderful Cow.

In the "Live Stock and Dairy" department of the current issue of Farm and Fireside appears an interesting account of a remarkable cow owned at Woodland, Cal., which has given 30,000 pounds of milk in a year. What this means is explained in the following extract taken from the article about her:

"It is a most astounding achievement in milk production. It means that this great milk-producing machine called Tillie Alarva gave a 15-quart pail of milk every morning, noon, and night, for 11 months of the year—for such a cow would have to be milked at least three times a day.

"This sort of cow is like the horse which can trot a mile in two minutes—not a creature which every man may hope to possess, but a mark to be set as the possible attainment. On the average farm Tillie would die of ill usage. She could not safely be chased by dogs or worried by swarming men and steaming throwing boys. It would not do to take the milk stool to her as a part of her education, nor to leave her lowing at the barn until 9, either morning or night, waiting to be milked. Under such conditions Tillie's great award would be ruined by pressure of milk or the bruising and tearing of running and jumping about to avoid punishment.

"She must be a wonderfully vigorous animal, but her vigor is directed to milk production, and not argument with a harsh owner or a struggle with ill usage of any sort. The man who desires the best in dairy cows must educate himself and his household up to her standard."

ESTATE OF ABIE M. EDWARDS

State of Vermont, District of Washington, ss. The Honorable Probate Court for the District of Washington:

To the heirs and all persons interested in the estate of Abie M. Edwards, late of the town of Barre, in said district, deceased, GREETING:

WHEREAS, application hath been made to this court, in writing, by the executor, William J. Clapp, praying for license and authority to sell all of real estate of said deceased, to wit: The home farm known as the John McLaughlin farm, and where deceased lived at the time of her death, consisting of about 120 acres of land and farm buildings, representing to said court that it would be beneficial to the heirs and all persons interested in the estate of said deceased, to sell said real estate and convert the same into money.

And bringing into court the consent and approbation, in writing, of all the heirs, and said estate residing in said state, and setting forth the situation of the real estate.

WHEREUPON, the said court appointed and assigned the 26th day of January, 1915, at the probate office in Montpelier, in said district, to hear and decide upon said application and petition, and to receive and give notice thereof to be given to all persons interested therein, by publishing said order, together with the time and place of hearing, three weeks successively in the Barre Daily Times, a newspaper circulating in the neighborhood of those persons interested in said estate, all of which said publication is previous to the day assigned for hearing.

THEREFORE, you are hereby notified to appear before said court, at the time and place assigned, then and there in said court to make your objections to the granting of such license, if you see cause.

And under my hand at Montpelier, in said district, the 8th day of January, 1915.

FRANK J. MARTIN, Judge.
